For a Challenging Market

Full Freshness for optimal Health & Nutrition

Our fast field-to-frozen processing systems allow the vegetables and herbs to retain full freshness, flavour, aroma and appearance.

Therefore our frozen vegetables are as healthy as fresh vegetables; this is in line with what The British Nutrition Foundation states in its briefing paper 'Nutrition and Food Processing': 'In some cases processed foods actually retain more nutrients than the unprocessed form'.

Sustainability

In this day and age, it is not just what we sell that is important but also how we produce it. Our Environmental and Ethical trading policies ensure great respect for people, nature and environment. That is why Dujardin has already made a number of choices that have a direct impact on our environment, such as a high-tech wastewater purification system, optimized production technologies, bio gas and solar energy systems...

Quality

Rigorous health and hygiene safety standards are in place to make sure that our products are both safe and of excellent quality:

- HACCP/ IFS / BRC
- Analyses: Microbiological, chemical and physical checks on raw materials, semi-finished and finished products are done by in home or by accredited external laboratories.

Full traceability

We apply the highest technical standards demanded by the BRC and IFS.
