/ 0% trend

More than ever before, alcohol consumption is being questioned and discussed. More and more people are deciding to limit their drinking, either permanently or temporarily, and not only for health reasons. Whether it be to take part in a sporting event, the Dry January or the Mineral Tour, in anticipation of a happy event, out of religious conviction or to get back on the road safely, or simply to vary the pleasures or enjoy them more... there are many reasons to go "alcohol-free"!

This trend is gaining momentum; it is evolving exponentially. Because it meets the expectations of the ever-increasing number of people who want to enjoy traditional products and festive moments, without the constraints of alcohol. Who wish to offer a festive drink to everyone around their table, while respecting everyone's choices and diversity.

Vintense offers you a different wine experience that is just as enjoyable. Extremely fresh wines, as surprising as they are elegant, the result of unique Belgian know-how. A non-alcoholic alternative, but without compromising on taste or quality.

Today, Vintense is reinventing conviviality. By offering products that leave no one behind.

/ The story

In the Stassen family, the passion for beverage production has been passed on from generation to generation since 1895. The know-how and generosity can be felt in every sip of bubbles, made with the best fruits and according to a traditional method in the heart of the Aube valley in Belgium.

At the end of the 1980s, the Stassen family began to de-alcoholise their products. As a pioneer in Europe, they equipped themselves with state-of-the-art facilities and developed an innovative process. Since then, they have acquired unique expertise and know-how in this process.

As a result, the Vintense brand was created in 2011, becoming the first brand of de-alcoholised wines in Belgium. Consumers appreciate the quality and inimitable taste of the Stassen family's non-alcoholic beverages, which meet their desire for rational consumption.

The key to their success lies in their experience, know-how, passion and boldness.

« We have inherited from our ancestors the taste for good products, the demand for quality and the pleasure of sharing. Today, Vintense has become the benchmark for alcohol-free wines. Our brand has created a trend. To anchor it in a sustainable way, we continue to make it evolve constantly. A true source of inspiration. Vintense will continue to surprise. »

/ Our know-how

The selection of grape varieties is a crucial step in the creation of our non-alcoholic drinks. Our oenologists are charged with carefully selecting wines that will retain their special characteristics at the end of the dealcoholisation process. For this reason, they give preference to wines with recognised organoleptic characteristics, from sun-drenched terroirs, in the most beautiful areas of Spain and elsewhere.

The excellence of the raw material guarantees the quality and consistency of our vintages. Our wines thus retain their density in the mouth and offer an unparalleled oenological experience that fulfils all its promises.

«The complexity of our mission for Vintense is to select a wine that has been dealcoholized and must not be altered, to avoid the addition of sugars or other substitutes as much as possible. Alcohol allows to hide a lot of weaknesses. Whereas dealcoholisation does not suffer from mediocrity.»

/ Our know-how

Once our wines have been selected, the unique dealcoholisation process can begin. This process preserves the subtle aromas of the original wines, while guaranteeing an absolute alcohol content of 0.0%.

This state-of-the-art technique consists of extracting all the alcohol present in the wine by exerting a low vacuum pressure on the wine, allowing the alcohol to evaporate at a low temperature (maximum 25-30°C). This prevents the volatile aromas from disappearing and guarantees that the organoleptic qualities of the original wine are maintained. The essential taste and aroma characteristics of the wine are preserved. Unlike other brands that heat the wine to a higher temperature, Vintense de-alcoholised drinks lose very little flavour. At the end of the process, the wine has undergone a minimum of alterations, while being de-alcoholised to an extreme degree.

Finally, the blending ensures a strong structure, a perfect balance and the freshness of the Vintense 0.0% alcohol range. The bottles of Vintense are ready to be labelled and to reveal their most beautiful colours...

/ Our awards

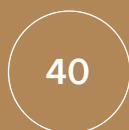

When Vintense was launched in 2011, non-alcoholic wines were completely absent from supermarket displays. Gradually, Vintense found its way in, paving the way for the development of other non-alcoholic beverages and the creation of special departments for de-alcoholised drinks.

Since then, Vintense has established itself as the finest product on the market. Our brand stands out for the quality of its non-alcoholic wines with an incomparable sparkle. It has earned its credentials by winning various prizes and medals. It has won more than 10 awards. Today, Vintense is distributed in over 40 countries.

In order to maintain the quality of this wine, which is unrivalled in Europe, our teams continue to progress in research and development. They are constantly working to improve the current range, while adding trend-setting tastes that will delight palates eager for discovery.

/ Benefits of non-alcoholic wine

Non-alcoholic beverages are becoming increasingly popular as an attractive alternative to traditional alcoholic beverages. They offer a good compromise between pleasure and health, allowing consumers to enjoy tasty drinks without the negative effects of alcohol on their body and mind.

What is even more interesting is that these drinks are now being consumed by a wider range of the population, including pregnant women, vulnerable and elderly people, and those taking medication. This allows them to enjoy festive drinks on different occasions without having to worry about the risks associated with alcohol consumption.

In addition, these drinks can be consumed before driving, which makes them a safe alternative to alcoholic drinks. Drivers can enjoy a night out with friends without having to worry about their ability to drive safely after drinking.

In short, non-alcoholic beverages are an increasingly popular option for those seeking to enjoy a tasty drink without the negative effects of alcohol. With a wider population consuming them, they offer a safe and convenient alternative to traditional alcoholic drinks.

/ Non-alcoholic wine and diabetes

Non-alcoholic wine is an interesting alternative for those who are looking to limit their alcohol consumption while enjoying a tasty drink. In terms of calories, non-alcoholic wine is a healthier option than traditional wine, being on average 70% lower in calories. However, it does contain slightly more carbohydrates than traditional wine, which may be a concern for those watching their carbohydrate intake.

With regard to diabetes, it is recommended to limit the consumption of non-alcoholic wine because of its sugar content, even though it is three times less sweet than a soda. To reduce insulin production, it is recommended to drink alcohol-free wine with a meal or snack rich in fat, protein or fibre, thus reducing the glycaemic index.

All in all, alcohol-free wine is an attractive option for those seeking to limit their alcohol consumption and reduce their calorie intake. However, its carbohydrate and sugar content should be taken into account, especially for people with diabetes.

Vintense offers a range of quality products. Its non-alcoholic wines allow you to enjoy while taking care of your health and, to a lesser extent, your waistline. Personally, as a nutritionist, I particularly recommend still and sparkling wines. But mocktails, on average 30% lower in calories than sodas or fruit juices, will allow you to enjoy a delicious non-alcoholic cocktail and have a good time without feeling guilty!
